10:00 - 11:00 - ~~Great~~ Clear Expectations: How DARCI can clarify roles and responsibilities

Please register no later than Friday, May 5th.

We look forward to seeing you there should your schedule permit.

Speaker Bio:

Danielle B. Steele is a founding member, former president, (former most roles), and current sponsor of the ASU PM Network. Her key deliverables for the PM Network include spearheading the Network's flagship program to offer credit-eligible courses, creating the Network's PMBOK and Coaching teams, and building relationships with other communities of practice across ASU.

Starting as a program coordinator in higher-ed, Danielle forged a career that leveraged her transferable project management skills to integrate her education and passion for organizational and leadership development. Essentially, she guides teams and initiatives that strive to improve the environment in which we work.

Today's topic offers insight into one the tools that facilitate how we work. Whether you're an accidental project manager, a voluntold people manager, a default sponsor and everything in between -- her goal is for each of you to see yourselves in the work through clear expectations.

Mentoring and Mentee Opportunity with CSW

Mentoring and Mentee Opportunities:

The Commission on the Status of Women are accepting applications to their ASU staff mentoring program for the summer 2023 cohort. The ASU PM Network strongly encourages our members who have project management experience to consider applying to be a mentor in this program. This provides an invaluable opportunity for ASU staff to be mentored by experienced PM professionals and is also a rewarding opportunity for the mentor! Details below:

- Applications Due May 16th
- Visit the CSW website for complete program guides and application materials.
- Program is free and is open to all staff at ASU.
- To register for an information session on the program visit: https://asucswmentoringinfo2023.eventbrite.com
- Questions? Contact Karen Engler-Weber, CSW Program Director

Scholarship Opportunities Available from PMI

PMI invests in its rising leaders by funding scholarships for undergraduate and graduate study in project management or project management-related field of study. Please note there is only one application for all the scholarships below.

The new Diversity, Equity, & Inclusion (DE&I) Scholarships have a separate application. All application materials must be in English.

The scholarship application is now open and will close on 1 May.
