PDU: 1.5 Power Skills

Imagine a world where project managers are empowered to lead their teams to success in new and innovative ways. A world where project managers use artificial intelligence to automate tasks and gain insights into their projects. A world where project managers use virtual reality and augmented reality to collaborate with team members from all over the world. And a world where project managers use data analytics to make better decisions and improve project outcomes.

This is the future of project management. And with the right skills and mindset, project managers can play a leading role in shaping the future of work.

Join us for a panel discussion with leading experts in project management as they explore the future of the profession.

Research Opportunity

Ariton Zanev (Co-founder and CEO of Task 'N Go) and Jovana Madjovska (Co-founder and COO of Task 'N Go), in collaboration with Arizona State University and as part of the GIST Innovates the Balkan initiative, are conducting groundbreaking research on project management platforms. This research aims to explore the impact of these platforms on both individual employee efficiency and the overall performance of companies. Task 'N Go are currently seeking individuals who have experience working with project and task management platforms for online interviews. The interviews will be approximately 15-20 minutes long and can be conducted with C-level executives, 2nd level management (such as Project Managers, Product Owners, and Product Managers), as well as end-users or employees responsible for filling in task-related information.

To sign up for an interview, please follow this link and select a calendar slot:

<https://outlook.office365.com/owa/calendar/TaskNGomeetings@taskngo.me/bookings/>.

If you have any questions, please reach out to either Jovana Madjovska or Ariton Zanev via email at jovana.madjovska@taskngo.me or ariton.zanev@taskngo.me.
